Empowerment

Cardell puts the power of the vanity-buying process back into your hands. We've stripped away the hassle, providing you with the choices, the speed, and the service you should expect from a cabinet and countertop company.

Things to consider.

- Think about the configuration, style and sizes that work best with the location of your plumbing
- Consider your flooring, does it cover the entire floor or will you need a vanity with a toe kick to cover any exposed areas?
- Depending on the size of your space, you may need fillers to help finalize your vanity size
- Will you need to finish an exposed vanity end with an end panel? The location of your vanity and walls help determine this
